Interpersonal Skills

Central to the success of all leaders is the ability to interact effectively with people of all levels in and out of the organisation. In addition to their personal achievements, exceptional leaders are recognised by their capacity to work well on teams and relate favourably with others.

The Interpersonal Success Inventory provides leaders with a critical snapshot of their own interpersonal skills and clear direction for improvement.

The 52 question focuses primarily on 7 competency areas.

- Communication
- Decision making
- Leadership
- Performance Management
- Innovation
- Self Development
- Systems thinking

Leaders who know how to build and nurture positive relationships with others, significantly increase leadership effectiveness, enhance overall employee satisfaction and client retention, while creating long term value for their organisations.

The Interpersonal Skills Inventory 360 is rooted in long standing well respected leadership principals and focuses on pivotal behaviours that are broadly recognised to promote organisational loyalty, synergy and overall profitability.

The survey process is easy fast and simple

You simply enter the names of the people you want to receive feedback. (participants) Our system sends the participant an email containing a link to the survey.

Once participants click on the link, they enter the names of those that they want to provide feedback (raters) and take the survey themselves.

Our system does everything else from there, including sending invitations and reminders, collecting and analysing the data and producing elegant reports. The reports are crystal clear and easy to understand.

Everyone (you, participants, raters, leaders) enjoy full service at no additional charge.

Our full service seasoned professionals, to ensure that everything goes smoothly. If there is ever a survey task you don't want to do yourself, we will do it for you, at no extra charge. If anyone taking the survey has questions there's, a professional ready and waiting to help!

Whether using the survey for one person or to enhance leadership development throughout your entire organisation, the interpersonal Skills Inventory is an effective precursor to follow-on training, coaching or self directed improvement.

Once the survey is complete we can if necessary we can help you understand the results and plan next steps. We have conducted over 3 million surveys and are excited to share just what we have learned.
